

Helping businesses innovate from the edges of human diversity

At Access to Success, we work with organizations to build more accessible, inclusive and overall better products, services and processes. One of the best ways to build an accessible product is to work directly with people with lived experiences of disabilities. We are always looking for people with lived experiences of disabilities to share their experiences and ideas with businesses to co-create a more accessible and inclusive world - one product at a time.

We want to work with you!

If you identify as a person with curiosity, creative ideas and with one or more disabilities, you may be interested in future opportunities to contribute as a co-creator!

Share your previous experience with a select product or service

Try a product or service and share your experience and ideas for improvement

We compensate all our co-creators for their time and contributions.

Interested in opportunities to participate as a co-creator?

Sign up online

<https://accesstosuccess.ca/inclusive-design-community-list/>

Email us

Teresa@AccessToSuccess.ca

After you sign up:

- We will reach out to you with details of new opportunities when they become available
- You can sign up for specific opportunities which are a good fit for you
- Co-creation opportunities may be available virtually or in-person

About Access to Success

Access to Success supports the development of future leaders with disabilities and assistive tech. We run ATS Labs, Canada's first accelerator designed exclusively to help accessibility, mental health and aging tech startups scale.

