

The preparations for the Special ESHET 2022 Issue of the European Journal of the History of Economic Thought are now under way. The 25th ESHET conference was held recently at the University of Padua, Italy. A large number of papers were presented and discussed on site and online. The executive committee of ESHET and the editors of EJHET have decided to publish a special issue from a selection of the papers that have been presented at the conference; the issue is scheduled for publication in December 2023 (EJHET vol 30, issue 6).

We are therefore writing to invite those who have attended the conference in Padua (in person or online) to submit their full papers for consideration for the special issue of EJHET. The special issue has no specific theme and all papers that were accepted for presentation at the conference would be considered.

Please note the following:

1. Full papers (including a short abstract and a list of up to five key-words) should be submitted no later than 15th September 2022 to the EJHET Coordinating Editor:
michael.trautwein@uol.de
2. Submitted papers will undergo a two-step procedure: first a preselection by the Editorial Committee and thereafter, for the selected set of papers, a process of review by anonymous referees in line with the regular procedures of EJHET.
3. Those who are not native English speakers are asked to have their papers checked by a native English speaker before submission. It is in the best interest of every author to deliver her or his paper written in a readily intelligible and accessible manner.
4. Since ESHET will have to pay for the amount of pages that exceeds the publisher's constraints (and since editors and reviewers, too, suffer from severe time constraints) the authors are asked to avoid any unnecessary length of their papers. While there is no word limit ex ante, conciseness is one of the criteria by which the reviewers are asked to assess the papers.

With all best wishes,

The Editorial Committee for the Special ESHET 2022 Issue of EJHET:
